Sea Cadet Ship Docks In Houghton

Houghton residents got an unusual sight Tuesday--36 Naval Sea Cadets, in full dress uniform, were walking the streets downtown.

They got some downtime after their ship, The Grayfox, docked in Houghton. Some of them stayed on board to give residents tours of the ship. They're part of a program that teaches them sailing and discipline. The group of 13 through 18 year olds function on board the ship like a naval ship crew.

They come from all over the United States and say they are still trying to get used to the cramped quarters and the occasional bout of seasickness.
